

My husband and I are opposed to any laws that would allow further consolidation of media ownership, because this would limit the dissemination of information and would restrict debate over controversial issues that affect us as citizens.